CAMPAIGN BRINKS ON $1,000,000

The Presbyterian College development program stands right on the brink of $1,000,000 after the conclusion of a successful campaign in Piedmont Presbytery.

President Marshall W. Brown announced that $997,702 has been subscribed to PC during the past 18 months. Scattered returns during the next few weeks are expected to push this total over the $1,000,000 mark.

The Diamond Jubilee development program, conducted among friends of the controlling Synods of Georgia and South Carolina and among alumni beyond the bounds of these two states, was launched with a maximum goal of $750,000. President Brown said the tremendous response which enabled the program to exceed by one-fourth its original objective is a source of inspiration to Presbyterian College.

Piedmont Presbytery, the final region within the two synods to conduct a drive, completed its active campaigning with a total of $45,250.90 from 495 subscriptions. This represents almost 100 percent achievement of the $49,500 goal, and efforts are being continued there to reach this objective.

Douglas McDougald and the Rev. W. McLeod Frampton, both of Anderson, S. C., served as co-chairmen of the Piedmont drive. The Anderson First Presbyterian Church, under the Rev. Richard

T. Gillespie, set the pace for the region by producing $13,129 on 124 gifts for 174.4 percent of its quota. Little Midway Church came next in total amount and was first percentage-wise with $11,820 on 52 gifts for 675 percent.

Other churches of this region to achieve their quotas of $10 per communicant were: Henry Belk Church, $1,640 on 19 gifts for 197.6 percent; Pendleton Church, $1,626 on 33 gifts for 120.5 percent; and Easley Church $2,210 on 9 subscriptions for 100 percent.

A breakdown of the $997,702 development total shows $904,422 subscribed by 6,900 Presbyterian friends and alumni and $93,280 given by foundations.

President Brown pointed out that these funds will be used to add a new student center and a chapel-auditorium to the Presbyterian College plant and to increase endowment. Bids are scheduled to be taken on the student center next month.

Church Groups Meet At PC This Summer

Five Presbyterian church groups and a boy scout council are scheduled to hold conferences at Presbyterian College this summer.

They will bring young people and adult leaders from both the controlling Synods of Georgia and South Carolina to the PC campus.

Mrs. R. Grier Robinson

The tenth annual Synodical Training School of South Carolina is expected to assemble more than 200 women leaders here from throughout the state on June 17-22 under the leadership of Mrs. R. Grier Robinson of Charleston. Presbyterian College is now the permanent home of this school.

The South Carolina Synod Senior High Leadership School, another regular part of the PC summer schedule, will open the calendar of events on June 10-15. Two Presbyteries also will hold their senior high conferences here: Congaree, on July 1-6; and Charleston, on July 8-13.

Then, women of Georgia will join those of South Carolina in a joint enterprise which returns to Presbyterian College for the third straight year. It is the Area Laboratory School for training Sunday school teachers, set for July 14-20.

And boy scouts of the Blue Ridge (S. C.) Council will return again this summer for a three-day assembly on August 16-18.

Moorhead Establishes Scholarship Fund

Another $10,000 gift to Presbyterian College was announced today by President Marshall W. Brown.

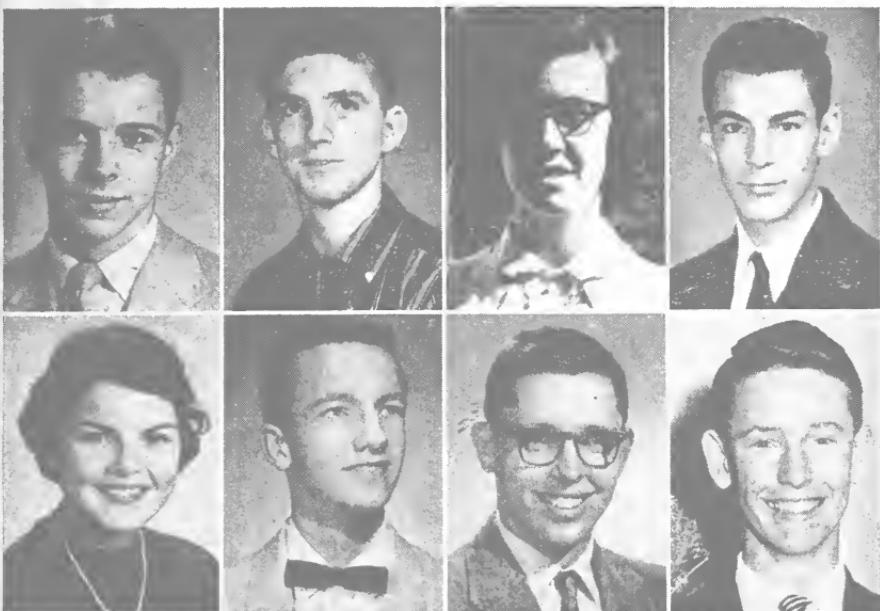

It establishes the Albert Moorhead Scholarship, a gift of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Moorhead of Anderson, S. C.

The Crown Oil Company distributor for that region, Moorhead has been a liberal supporter of religious and civic activities there, and is a member of the Midway Presbyterian Church. He established the scholarship at PC in connection with the development campaign which has just raised $45,250 for Presbyterian College in Piedmont Presbytery.

President Brown pointed out that this contribution is the fourth $10,000 gift made to PC during the development program. Others were from J. M. Wilson, Sr., and sons of Fayetteville, N. C., Graham Reynolds of Trenton, S. C., and Henry K. Burns of Macon.

Dr. Brown said that the generosity of these men and of thousands of other men and women who contributed varying amounts to the program enabled PC to complete its most successful fund-raising campaign in history.

Founder's Scholarships at Presbyterian College will go to these eight high school seniors enrolling next September. The competitive awards, ranging up to $1,600 for the four years of study, were made on the basis of character, intellect and leadership after thorough testing and interviews from among a large field of candidates. Recipients are, left to right: Top row—Jimmy Eason of Clinton, S. C.; Britt Spann of McRae, Ga.; Miss Brenda Gay Maddox of Spartanburg, S. C.; and Robert Jeanes of Easley, S. C. Bottom row—Miss Mary Keith Adir of Clinton; Paul Ard of Atlanta; James Monroe of Latta, S. C.; and Wayne Donald Kay of Anderson, S. C.

At 76th Graduation

College Awards 98 Degrees On June 3

Presbyterian College will award 98 baccalaureate degrees and three honorary degrees at its 76th commencement exercises on June 3.

John Osman, PC alumnus now serving as a vice-president of the Ford Foundation, is scheduled to deliver the commencement address at that time. The Rev. Allison Williams, pastor of Atlanta's Trinity Presbyterian Church, will preach the baccalaureate sermon on June 2.

Williams also will receive one of the two honorary doctor of divinity degrees to be awarded at commencement. The other will go to the Rev. Neil Truesdale, another PC alumnus who is pastor of the Aveleigh Presbyterian Church of Newberry, S. C. An honorary doctor of laws degree will be awarded Douglas G. MacRae of Atlanta, a Christian leader and television Sunday school teacher who serves as assistant superintendent of the Fulton County Public Schools.

In addition to their degrees, the PC seniors will receive 20 commissions as second lieutenants in the Officers' Reserve Corps, and numerous medals and awards for outstanding achievement.

A Gift Serves As A Living Memorial

What better way to remember a loved one than through a memorial gift which will help dedicated young men prepare themselves for years of Christian Service?

Friends or relatives of a deceased loved one may wish to send to Presbyterian College a gift which will serve as such a memorial. It will endure in the lives of these young men and through them make an immeasurable contribution to the work of the Kingdom of God.

The names of the person memorialized and of the donor will be recorded in a Book of Memory and will be carried in a special edition of this publication. Acknowledgment of the gift will be made to the family of the person in whose memory it is given.

This is a truly living memorial.
